What is SSOEL-Japan? This is the Society for the Study of the Origin and Evolution of Life JAPAN. Everybody interested in this theme will heartily be welcome. The Society publishes its own journal "Viva Origino" regularly now online in the archive of the web pages of the Society, accessible to all. Every member is supposed to contribute to the journal. The Society also organizes annual meetings in which every member has the privilege to give a talk on his or her new research results and to bring in new agenda. You will be almost sure with finding enthusiastic colleagues like you in our Society. Why not join us?

Launching a New Attempt

The main agenda of our Society is an extremely time-honored one. At the same time, our members live in a rapidly changing world. What concerns us most is how to preserve the best of the best while letting ourselves amenable to what is going on out there. In this regard, I am happy to announce that the editorial board of our Society journal "Viva Origino" has finally set up the framework to publish research papers authored by our members in its web journal. Our e-journal is a new and courageous attempt for us to approach our colleagues at large more easily and more effectively. We hope that our new format will facilitate and make it easier for our international community to access our journal in both subscribing to and contributing to it. We believe that our new attempt could finally bring our Society a profitable and productive consequence. For this objective to materialize sooner, please let us have your participation and support in any aspect of activities our Society has been addressing.
